

POPE LEO XIII IS DYING.

Final Collapse of the Pontiff is Anticipated By Sunset This Evening.

Cardinal Gibbons Prepares to Go to Rome.

"God's Will Be Done," Murmured Leo After Re- ceiving the Last Sacrament—Calmly Bade Ecclesiastics Good-bye, Prepared to Meet His God.

Rome, July 6—(6 p. m.) The Pope is still living.

ROME, July 6—4:30 p. m.—All persons inquiring at the Vatican are informed that His Holiness' condition remains grave.

WESTMINSTER, Md., July 6—Cardinal Gibbons who is visiting friends at Union Mills when shown the bulletins from Rome, regarding the Pope's illness said:

"This news brings me profound sorrow. You may say that in the event of the Pope's death, I will start for Rome by the first possible steamer, because I honored him for his greatness and esteemed him for his goodness and loved him for himself and for his great kindness to me."

PARIS, July 6—A Paris paper this afternoon received the following message from Cardinal Rampolla: "The Holy Father is still in a serious condition, but he is no worse. He passed a quiet night and is taking nourishment without difficulty. He maintains perfect intellectual lucidity."

ROME, July 6—The Pope who continues clear minded, despite his serious condition, this afternoon made his last testament leaving his personal property to be divided among his nephews, especially stipulating that his piano forte be given to the children of Riccardo Pecci. The thoughtfulness and gentleness which have characterized this remarkable man, have been more thoroughly exemplified than ever during yesterday and today. His Holiness' entourage are frequently in tears, while there is hardly a dry eye throughout the whole of the Vatican. Even the Swiss guard, usually stolid and unemotional, can scarcely conceal their sorrow that the Pontiff is slowly passing away.

ROME, July 6—9:45 a. m.—A bulletin just issued says there is a slight improvement in the condition of His Holiness. While the weakness is more marked his breathing is more regular.

The Pope has been carried from his bed and is now resting upon a reclining chair.

ROME, July 6—The following bulletin was issued at the Vatican this morning:

"Although His Holiness passed an almost sleepless night he is not so unwell as he was yesterday. The patient has been benefited by injections of digitalis and camphor. His chest is normal. There is a light cough and some catarrhal emissions. Sufficient nourishment has been taken. The pulse is irregular. The general condition of His Holiness remains grave, but it has become no worse."

London, July 6—(Bulletin)—Your correspondent at Rome wires that the amelioration of the Pope's condition since last night is astonishing everybody. Real hope for his Holiness recovery, however, is excluded by the probability that the revival is merely a last burst of strength before the end. The final collapse is anticipated by sunset.

London, July 6—The Exchange Telegraph company's Rome correspondent wires that the pope showed increased vigor during this morning, walking about the room. This exertion, however, was followed by prostration and sleep.

Washington, July 6—The papal legation received the following cablegram this morning from Rome:

"The condition of the holy father is still grave but not worse. Passed night in calm and takes food without reluctance. State of mind perfectly clear."
(Signed),
RAMPOLLA.

Rome, July 6—The Pope's strength has been waning for a fortnight. His Holiness declined to conserve the remnants of his strength, refusing frequently during the past month to obey Dr. Laponni's instructions to cease all work, and especially to avoid the exhaustion following the receptions of pilgrims from various parts of the world. Dr. Laponni for a week past has been endeavoring to induce His Holiness to remain in bed, but the Pope declined.

Friday despite Dr. Laponni's renewed protest the Pope left his bed in order to receive a group of Hungarian pilgrims. As Laponni feared the draught upon the Pope's slender store of strength was too great. His Holiness collapsed after the reception and fainted. For the past ten days the Pope has been taking a drive daily in the Vatican gardens. A week ago he told Dr. Laponni he intended giving himself a few hours daily among his beloved flowers in the Vatican gardens until October.

Friday night Dr. Laponni remained continually with the Pope, ministering

LEO'S POEM ON DEATH.

The sinking sun, descending into night.
Sheds on thee, Leo, its last rays of light.

In thy chilled veins the blood creeps day by day,
Slowly—more slowly—as life ebbs away.

Death casts his dart—thy mortal form, when cold,
Earth shall receive—the funeral shroud enfold.

But from its prison thy glad soul shall rise,
Stretch wide its wings, and, soaring seek the skies.

Then, when life's long hard road has all been trod,
Ah, if it be Thy blessed will, O God,

Grant me, if counted worthy of Thy grace,
In Thy most blessed Heaven to see Thy face!

Chloral and caffeine were administered by the mouth in order to strengthen the heart, but his Holiness refused to have either injected. The weakness and exhaustion became augmented notwithstanding the efforts being made to keep up the Pontiff's spirits.

His Holiness refuses to take wine, though the doctor has advised him to do so in order to aid the secretions of all the organs, which are depressed owing to the weakness of the heart.

At 5 o'clock Sunday morning His Holiness, after receiving communion in ordinary form, said to Father Piffiori, his private confessor:

"I desire to receive solemn communion this evening."

Father Piffiori replied:

"Your Holiness had better wait until tomorrow."

The Pope replied:

"No, administer it this evening. Tomorrow I shall be no more."

His Holiness's pessimistic remark created consternation among his suite. Despite his weakness the Pope's mind continues lucid to an extraordinary degree. He apparently clearly realizes that death this time is inevitable.

The Pope's physicians said His Holiness might live two days through sheer strength of mind. Signor Pacelli, director of the Banca Romana, said that the Pope's will was made long ago, and everything is ready for eventualities. That death is expected is proved by the fact that the monsignors and others of Leo's personal favorites are already prepared to quit the Vatican. Cardinal Oreglia and Dr. Laponni remained with the Pope all day.

Your correspondent saw Dr. Mazzoni on his return from consultation at Pope Leo's bedside. The doctor said:

"The situation this time is certainly really grave, in view of the great age of the patient and his state of extreme weakness. However, the case is not yet desperate, especially with a man having such unexpected reserves of energy and vitality, which at the age of 93 is indeed astonishing. The exact definition is senile adynamic pneumonia, but His Holiness has not the least idea that he is attacked by any organic disease. In fact he was not in bed when I went to the Vatican, but was seated in his usual arm chair, where I am accustomed to see him every time I visit the palace."

"He believes that the oppression on his chest and the accompanying difficulty of breathing are merely the results of extreme weakness. As soon as he saw me His Holiness repeatedly requested me to turn by attention to the best means of restoring his strength, which, he said, was all he required, except a little fresh air. Now and then the Pope has recourse to his inveterate habit of snuff taking, saying that he finds it very refreshing.

"The weakness of the patient's pulse and his short and irregular breathing, gradually approaching to gasping, are the only external symptoms of any serious nature; but, as I said before, the Pope this morning was full of spirit and would not take a grave view of his own case. When I left him His Holiness said: 'Come again soon. I will try to give you a better reception.'"

During the afternoon the strength of the Pontiff began to fail him so rapidly and his condition became so critical that it appeared that only a few hours of his life remained to him. It was therefore, deemed wise to advise him of his grave condition and this was done with tender precaution. Pope Leo was thus prepared for his last communion, which was administered Sunday night with the participation of all the Cardinals now in Rome and the whole Pontifical court.

The solemn yet gorgeous ceremony of administering the last sacrament took place at the bedside of Pope Leo. The central figure was the dying Pontiff, whose long life's journey was nearly over, calmly preparing to enter the dark valley. His pale and emaciated face, almost as white as the pillows on which it rested, showed little sign of life, except the keen, glittering eyes, always his most striking feature.

Around the bed were grouped the Noble Guards in their glittering uniforms, the Knights of the Cloak and Sword, in their picturesque medieval costume of black, with white ruffs; 25 Cardinals, all the members of the Sacred College who are present in Rome; stately and venerable figures, in their sweeping crimson robes, the whole forming a scene of rich yet subdued coloring, a fit subject for the pencil of Rembrandt.

The whole of what is called the Pontifical family, headed by Cardinal Rampolla, and including the private chamberlain, were there. Nearest to the bed stood the imposing, tall figure of the Cardinal Grand Penitentiary, Serafino Vannutelli, with the Pope's confessor, to hear the last confession of the departing Pontiff. Then the priest apostolic approached, bearing the viaticum to give the last communion, and another unction, assisted by the Grand Penitentiary. Pope Leo feebly recited the Confession of Faith as formulated by the Council of Trent, and finally the words of absolution and the formula of indulgence in articulo mortis were solemnly pronounced by the Grand Penitentiary.

The heads of the great religious orders who were present granted the Pope the special indulgences which they have the privilege of conferring. Then came the touching prayers for a passing soul and part of the Gospel, the Lord's passion. As the last words died away all fell on their knees. The Pontiff, raising his most transparent fingers with a feeble effort, pronounced in scarcely audible words his benediction on the Sacred College and all present, then sank back on his pillows.

There was scarcely a tearful eye in the whole assemblage. The sobs of the Pope's relatives were plainly heard. Deep silence fell, only broken now and again by a murmured prayer or a pious ejaculation.

BY FIRE

Big Packing Plant at St. Joseph Suffers Loss of Million and a Half. Two Men Perish.

St. Joseph, Mo., July 6—The main building of the Hammond Packing plant was destroyed by fire Sunday. The loss is estimated as high as a million and a half. It is entirely covered by insurance.

Two men lost their lives in the flames. One of them is reported to be Charles Miller, fire marshal at the plant. This could not be verified. Three men were injured, one of them seriously.

For a time the entire stockyards district was threatened. By hard work the Nelson Morris plant, 300 feet north of the Hammond plant, was saved, and this saved the Swift plant, which is to the north of the Nelson Morris building.

The carcasses of 4500 hogs, 1900 cattle and 800 sheep were burned. Nearly 100,000 pounds of oleo was destroyed.

The entire north building, measuring 120 by 400 feet and ranging in height from five to seven stories, was gutted. It was with the greatest difficulty that the south building was saved.

Educators Gathering.

Boston, July 6—Thousands of educators from all parts of the country reached this city Sunday, eager for the great convention of the National Educational association, which begins its annual session here today. Between 25,000 and 30,000 men and women closely identified with the different educational institutions in the country are ready to take up the week's work.

LOUBET

French President Arrives in England to Call on King Edward—Elaborately Received.

Dover, Eng., July 6—President Loubet arrived on English shores at one o'clock today on the French cruiser, Guichen. Elaborate arrangements had been made for his reception and when the Guichen appeared of port, 25 warships in the harbor drew out into line, extending over two and one-half miles and saluted as Loubet passed. On landing the President was greeted here by the Duke of Connaught, on behalf of King Edward. The latter will greet him personally when he arrives in London this afternoon.

PRISONERS ESCAPE.

Berkeley, W. Va., July 6—Burton Harper and Robert Crews, two of the federal prisoners who were incarcerated here awaiting trial for resisting officers in the Adkinsville trouble, in which several miners were killed, escaped from jail here last night. ## CAMP COOKS

Joined in Wedlock, Feature of Fourth of July Celebration at Buckeye Lake Camp.

Trinity Episcopal church choir of Newark went into camp at Shell Beach, Buckeye Lake, June 30 for a two weeks' outing. There are about 30 in the party, which is under the charge of Rev. G. W. Van Fossen and wife.

A special feature of the Fourth of July celebration was the marriage of Joseph Kinnall and Miss Margaret Elliott, both of Newark, the cooks of the camp.

It was the second matrimonial venture of the groom.

The ceremony was witnessed by a large crowd of excursionists who were the guests of the hotel.

The Newark party reports a rare good time.

Of the 10,000,000 Jews in the world 1,500,000 are in Russia, says Minister of the interior von Plehve.

CLOUDBURST

Sweeps Ravine and Causes Many Deaths in Pennsylvania--Dam Gives Way Under Weight of Water--Great Damage Done.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6—The latest estimate today of the loss of life at Oakfield park resort on the Pittsburg, McKeesport and Jennette railroad places the number at not less than 25. It is impossible to secure accurate information until a thorough canvass has been made. Work of searching for bodies began at daylight in Jennette. Houses and bridges are swept away and Brush creek is running down Sixth street in a torrent today. There was also heavy loss of life and property at Penn. Greensburg, Manor and Larimer, towns along the course of Brush creek.

Twenty lodges so far have been recovered. Most of them are unidentified and are of foreign birth and do not live in Jennette. The known dead are Miss Gertrude Keefer, of Jennette; Miss Kate Keefer, sister of Gertrude; Mrs. Levi Eaker, of West Jennette; Mrs. Philomena Niga, of Jennette; Alex Victor, George Williams, aged 36, John McGuerky or McCusky, aged 40, of West Jennette; John Fleming, of Greensburg; Edward Smith, colored, aged 10.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 6—Another horror, similar to that of Johnstown, occurred Sunday at Oakford Park, between this place and Johnstown, when, by the breaking of a dam, many people were drowned.

One report states that 100 were drowned, while another places the number from 50 to 75. The death list will probably be about 50.

Many bodies were swept away, and are floating toward the Monongahela river, while others were found crushed and bruised into unrecognizable masses the victims having taken refuge in a building, which collapsed.

Still other bodies have been found burned into blackened masses from having come into contact with live electric wires which fell on the victims who were fleeing for safety.

The names of those known and believed to have been drowned are:

Miss Gertrude Keefer, aged 19, of Jennette.

Edward O'Brien of Latrobe, an employee of Brown-Ketcham company here.

Joseph Overly of Indianapolis, Ind.,

employed by Brown-Ketcham company.

Lucy Crum of Jeanette.

Councilman John Light wife and two children of Greensburg.

At 3 o'clock rain began to fall in torrents in the vicinity of the park and spread over a territory covering probably ten miles.

A half hour later the cloudburst occurred, and the umbrellas carried by the crowds of people were crushed like eggshells. The waters in the lake north of Oakland park began to swell, and Manager James McGrath believing that there was danger of a final break in the great walls of the dam, hurried among the crowds of pleasure-seekers who had gathered under the roofs of the eating stands and other buildings in the line of the water, should the bank break and warned them to run to the hills.

On both sides of the pleasure grounds there are high hills, the park being situated in a ravine about a fourth of a mile wide and a mile long. The people, protected from the rain, were loathe to leave the cozy places, and not until Mr. McGrath and his assistant, Charles E. Thomas, entered each building in turn and simply drove the crowds out into the rain did they realize that the park managers were in earnest, for they knew, after careful study of the dam, that the awful flood meant probably the breaking of the wall that held five acres of water.

A half hour after the buildings had been cleared of the people, the waters mounted the walls of the dam, and within five minutes water to the depth of five feet was flowing over the entire length of 400 feet of the wall.

The park or ravine, studded with buildings, the merry-go-round, the laughing gallery, and other amusement places, were twisted about, and all but the dancing pavilion and large lunch stand were knocked from their foundations.

The rain continued to fall in torrents and about four o'clock forty feet of the wall of the dam to the east gave way with a crash. The flood beat down the ravine with a roar that was heard for two miles.

TOWN NOW QUIET.

Night of Wild Rioting in Evansville, Ind., Police Unable to Cope With Mob Numbering Hundreds--Militia Called Out.

Indianapolis, July 6—(Bulletin)—Governor Dubin is hurrying from Anderson to this city.

Evansville, Ind., July 6—This city is now thoroughly quiet after a night of wild rioting.

As late as 6 o'clock this morning the race riot which had been raging all night, seemed to be growing worse. The police up to that time were unable to cope with the mob as the mob numbered several hundred as against 60 patrolmen. Just after dawn the mob bombarded the houses of colored people in Baptist town, and the police had reports that many people were wounded in the battle which followed, and that there are probably some deaths. There was an unconfirmed report that several houses had been blown up. Up to this time the militia has not arrived, but efforts to get it together are in progress.

All day Sunday crowds of men surrounded the Vanderburg county jail at Evansville, where Lee Brown the negro who killed Patrolman Louis N. Massey, was supposed to be. At five o'clock in the morning the mob which had stormed the jail to lynch the negro disbanded although large numbers were around the jail all day.

Sheriff Kratz, becoming alarmed, took Brown to Vincennes Sunday morning for safe keeping. Feeling against the negro is intense and several assaults have been reported. The people refuse to believe that Brown has been taken out of the city.

At a late hour last night several hardware stores were broken into by white men and fire arms and ammunition was taken.

Brown was dangerously wounded by Patrolman Massey before he killed the latter, and his life is said to hang by a thread and the authorities fear that he cannot live.

BROWN IS DYING.

Evansville, Ind., July 6—The excitement subsided shortly after 6 o'clock this morning as the participants in last night's mob did not seem to want to be known. One sprang away of the negro Brown, was heard of about this time and placed a damper on the enthusiasm of the mob. Brown, who was placed in Vincennes jail for safety, is aying from the effects of a bullet wound received here. Doctors say he cannot live through the day.

The new Austrian tariff will be so high that it will be prohibitive to many articles exported from the United States.

POSTAL CARD DUNS.

Sandusky, O., July 6—Postmaster Leheret has received a ruling from the department at Washington placing a ban on dunning postal cards. The waterworks department here has made it a practice to send bills to delinquents on cards printed in red. The postmasters' instructions are to refer complaints to the United States District Attorney intimating that they are entitled to damages from the city.

The cornerstone ceremonies will be attended by the Knights of St. John of Columbus, Lancaster and Newark and the Hibernian Rifles of Columbus in uniform, also by members of the Knights of Columbus and Hibernian societies.

It is stated that Father Kellerman, now at the Josephinum, will succeed Father Kessler at the cathedral.

BONE BROKEN

The Son of Dr. Loving Hurt While Swimming at Buckeye Lake. Not Serious.

Buckeye Lake, July 6—Paul Loving son of Dr. Starling Loving, of Columbus, met with a peculiar accident while swimming in Buckeye Lake. He was diving from the dock when his right foot struck a projection and one of the bones was broken.

He was taken home, and is compelled to walk with a crutch. He was not so badly crippled, however, but that he was able to get out to see the automobile races Saturday afternoon. It is not thought that anything serious will result from his injury.

ZANESVILLE

Barber Tried to Drown His Former Sweetheart but Help Arrived in Time.

Zanesville, O., July 6—George Curtis, a young colored man, a barber, is under arrest, charged with attempting to kill his former sweetheart, Josie Bolen.

About a week ago Curtis and the girl quarreled. He followed her to her home and hovered around the house until about 11 o'clock. He then knocked on the door and asked her to come out into the yard as he wished to talk to her. She reluctantly consented and followed him half way to the front gate, when he threw his arms around her, picked her up and started with her toward a well of the open windlass variety and tried to throw her into it. She screamed and fought with superhuman strength and succeeded in combating his efforts to kill her until help arrived.

THREE PEOPLE KILLED.

Lancaster, O., July 6—The west bound C. and M. V. train struck a buggy at the Maple street crossing. The occupants, John Olive, a sawmill proprietor, living at Eckert's mill, and his wife, each aged 30, and an 18 months old child, were instantly killed. The horse was killed and the buggy demolished.

ACCIDENTS

At Zanesville and Vicinity Were Numerous—Three people Fatally Injured on Fourth.

Zanesville, O., July 6—A telephone message from Cumberland, states that Charles Berry, the 14 year old lad who stuck a match in a bottle of powder at that place died at midnight.

A message from Caldwell states that M. M. Herry, the stock dealer, who was thrown from a horse Friday night as a result of a cannon cracker explosion is not expected to live.

In this city, Fred Curtis, the lumber dealer, was thrown under a runaway horse, scared by fireworks, and his life is despaired of.

There were many other minor accidents here. C. E. Maneely, the mail carrier, was struck by a street car, because of the picnic rush, and sustained a fractured skull.

Leyland Turner will lose an eye by the premature explosion of a toy cannon.

Carle Bauer will lose one finger and possibly his entire right hand because of holding a cannon cracker too long.

Three young Zanesville boys named Fox, Richardson and Jones were painfully burned by a toy cannon.

A young boy named Kearns lost an eye because his brother fired a blank cartridge at him.

ANOTHER

Riot is Feared in Milford Center After the Arrival of More Italians—Four Arrests.

Marysville, O., July 6—Marshal Perkins arrested four of the Italians who were engaged in the race riot at Milford Center on July 4th. When arraigned before Justice John Kennington three of them were allowed to plead guilty to assault and disturbing the peace, through the efforts of the attorneys of the Pan Handle railroad company, in order that they might begin work today. They were fined $10 each and costs, which they paid, and were released. The other Italian proved his innocence, and was discharged. None of the others who participated in the riot could be identified.

The coroner's verdict over Francisco Canabala, who was killed in the riot, was that he met his death by a bullet fired by an unknown person. Canabala's funeral took place today at eight o'clock, in the township house at Milford Centre conducted by Rev. Father W. B. Magill, the Catholic priest of this city, and the remains will be buried in St. John's cemetery. Deceased was single, aged 40, and foreman of the gang.

About 100 more Italians arrived today to work on the Pan Handle railroad, and more trouble is anticipated.

Reasoning Power in Animals.

Animal intelligence, though not necessarily higher in degree when they are acting as our servants and not for their own ends, is then very much more easily approached and understood by us. The "point" is a curious example of an action in which instinct and reason meet. The stopping of the dog, however it Logan, has by training and heredity become instinctive. The dog, even when quite a puppy, stops when it smells the game and remains almost paralyzed, its impulse to rush in and seize it being checked by a strong instinct to stand still. Yet the dog, after he had accompanied his master and had game shot over him, is quite aware that he is a half controlled "medium," and while still under the dominating "pointing" instinct will look round imploringly to his master to urge him to hurry up if the scent tells him that the birds are moving. A border line action of a different kind is the squatting of young birds. It is a perfectly reasonable precaution. Keeping still and lying low are not characteristics peculiar only to Br'er Rabbit, but it is most remarkable to see the way in which tiny peewits or little teal, hardly bigger than a fluffy bee, lie down, put their little chins flat on the ground and remain motionless for minutes to avoid being seen.

An Effective Telegram.

When Senator Depew was president of the New York Central Railroad company he received a telegram which he preserved for a number of years and now and then showed to his friends, says a reminiscence writer for the Washington Star. This telegram reached him one fine morning a short time before Senator Platt was elected to the United States senate for the second time. It was sent from one of the stations of the New York Central and read:

Please stop the noon express here to take on Mrs. Platt and ME TOO.

It was a very unusual thing for that train to stop at that particular station, but Mr. Depew at once gave an order to have it done.

This telegram was referred to in the presence of Senator Platt on one occasion.

"You see," said the senator, "I wanted that train to stop without the least question of doubt. I knew that the way to reach Depew's heart was with a joke, and so I sent that telegram."

A Persistent Office Seeker.

Governor Stanley of Kansas was once so pestered by office seekers, relates the Saturday Evening Post, that he found it necessary publicly to make the statement that in view of the exceedingly numerous applications for office he had received through the mails he should be unable to give any attention to them, much less afford any hope of success to the various applicants.

In the course of a few days after making the statement in question, the governor received the following note:

"My Dear Governor—I understand that you have said that you were going to take a week off to destroy the pile of letters asking for jobs. If everything else is gone, then, my dear governor, I should like the job of tearing up the letters."

Gunpowder and Artillery.

There is abundant evidence that the origin of gunpowder and artillery goes far back in the dim ages of the past. The Hindoo code, compiled long before the Christian era, prohibited the making of war with cannon and guns or any kind of firearms. Quintus Curtius informs us that Alexander the Great met with fire weapons in Asia and Philostratus says that Alexander's conquests were arrested by the use of gunpowder. It is also written that those wise men who lived in the cities of the Ganges "overthrew their enemies with tempests and thunderbolts shot from the walls."—Cassell's Magazine.

The Mexican Carrier.

The cargador, or carrier, of Mexico is a remarkable individual. Nothing seems too bulky, nothing too heavy for him to carry, and it is quite wonderful how he manages not only to lift but to balance his cumbersome load. It is nothing for a man to carry a load weighing 400 pounds, this being borne either on the top of the head or on the shoulders and kept in place by a flat braid passing across the forehead.

Colonies of the World.

The colonies, so called, of the world occupy two-fifths of the land surface of the globe and contain one-third of the world's population, or about 500,000,000 people. Of this colonial population of 500,000,000 only three small groups, numbering less than 15,000,000 population, or 3 per cent of the whole, are composed in any considerable degree of the people of the governing country or their descendants.

Teacher—What is the meaning of "parvenu?"

Johnny—An upstart.

Teacher—Give me a sentence in which the word is used.

Johnny—When a man sits down on a bent pin he gives a violent parvenu.

Bleeding.

When I was young it was the fashion to bleed folks for different complaints, but they say now that it was a big mistake; the doctors still bleed, but they lance the pocket instead of the veins.—"The Substitute."

"Are you not worried by your wife's absence?"

"No; it's her return that always worries me."—Smart Set.

Bowser's Escape

He Has a Severe Attack of the Grip, but His Life Is Spared

[Copyright, 1933, by C. B. Lewis.]

WHEN Mr. Bowser had overslept his usual hour by fifteen minutes the other morning Mrs. Bowser went up to see what was wrong. He was awake, but he had just felt a shiver pass over him and had the quilts drawn up to his chin. He had made fun of the grip a hundred times over and had even asserted that only persons of weak intellect would give up to it, but now he had a feeling that he was in for it himself.

Mrs. Bowser scanned his flushed face and felt of his pulse and quietly said: "It's a case of the grip, and you'd better stay in bed today. Of course the grip doesn't amount to anything, but you'd better take reasonable precautions."

"But it does amount to something," he contended as another shiver struck him. "I was reading last night that it had carried off over 400 people in this town alone in the last year. I want a doctor at once."

"IT'S A CASE OF THE GRIP."

"But it is a mild attack, and you know you have often said that no person with an ounce of brains!"

"It makes no difference what I have often said. I am all of a shiver one minute and burning up the next, and my mouth is as dry as chips. Telephone the doctor at once and tell him not to be all day getting around here."

That was the beginning of the day. At 9 o'clock Mrs. Bowser brought up some tea and toast, and Mr. Bowser took a few sips of the one and nibbled at the other and said he had a feeling that he was not long for this world. His voice was very plaintive as he said it.

At half past 9 he called Mrs. Bowser up to say that his head ached, his feet were cold and he wanted a quiet funeral in case of death. She assured him that one day in bed would probably effect a cure, but he sighed and shook his head and hoped he would have his senses to the last.

At 10 o'clock the doctor arrived. Having heard Mr. Bowser disparage the grip and the medical profession combined, he felt it his duty to assume a serious look and announce that it was an aggravated case and might terminate in pneumonia.

The patient was to take three kinds of medicine, summon up all his will power and remain in bed for at least two weeks. He also inquired if Mr. Bowser had his life insured and his house in order. In taking his leave he observed that nine out of ten cases of the grip were proving fatal and that fat men were being mowed down like grass.

At 10:30 Mr. Bowser felt hot flashes and cold shivers, and a dog howled dismally in front of the house. He didn't inquire as to the color of the dog, but he felt more shivers as he heard the howls. He acknowledged that he was a crank and a kicker and begged Mrs. Bowser to turn his pillow over and forgive a dying man. He said he didn't want to be buried in Connecticut, but wouldn't raise a fuss about it.

At 11 o'clock there were more shivers, and he had a hot flatiron at his feet and a cup of hot tea; also held Mrs. Bowser's hand and said he was sorry for finding fault with the gas bill.

At 12 o'clock noon the patient complained of numbness in his knees and a buzzing in his ears. Had his pillow turned over and his feet tucked up, and Mrs. Bowser went down and chided the cook for singing, "I Would Not Live Alway."

At 1 o'clock Mr. Bowser seemed to be asleep, but as Mrs. Bowser wiped a tear off his cheek he opened his eyes and said that if he was to live his life over again he'd never buy a fire escape or a new milk cow without her consent. He would like to live on for her sake, but felt that he was called to go. More toast and tea, and he ate heartily for a dying man. Pillow turned over and the cat hustled out of the room.

At 2 o'clock the doctor came again. He looked more serious than before and sounded Mr. Bowser's lungs. Seemed to take a secret satisfaction in thumping him well. Announced that there was no sign of pneumonia yet, but advised the utmost caution against exposure or excitement. Said that most of his patients who died heard a dog howl a few hours before dissolution. It was just possible that he could pull the case through, but—As soon as he had departed Mr. Bowser had four shivers in succession and gave Mrs. Bowser a list of debts to be paid after he had become an angel.

At 3 o'clock the patient tried to sing a hymn, but gave it up in the middle of the first verse and asked Mrs. Bowser if she could possibly forgive him for jawing around when the coal was out. She wiped the tears from his eyes and kissed him, and he whispered that he was sorry for calling his mother-in-law a human hyena.

At 4 o'clock the patient felt a crinkling of his toes, accompanied by a twitching of the ears, and he declared his belief that they were signs of dissolution. He recalled the fact that he had once come home and raised a great row over finding a clothespin in the front yard, and he wanted to die knowing that Mrs. Bowser had forgiven him. Forgiveness was extended, and he was assured that he had many years of life still before him. This cheered him for a moment, but a new buzzing in the ears admonished him that his stay in this cold world might be brief.

At 5 o'clock more toast and tea. While the patient ate and drank he said that he was leaving the best wife in all the world behind him and that he deserved booting for the way he had held her responsible for broken windows and burst water pipes. He spoke of the cat as if she were a human being and wondered if she would miss him; wondered how he could have ever been so foolish as to try to ride a bike.

At 6 o'clock the patient felt that pneumonia had seized him in its deadly clutch and that two hours more would witness the end; held Mrs. Bowser's hand and asked her forgiveness for saying that she had no system about housekeeping; referred to his mother-in-law again and left her several farewell messages.

At 7 o'clock, as Mrs. Bowser sat downstairs and her patient was supposed to be asleep, Mr. Bowser suddenly appeared before her in his dressing gown.

"Good gracious!" she exclaimed. "But you—"

"Exactly, madam," he replied as he looked around for a cigar. "You and the doctor have fondly imagined all day that I was booked for Jericho, but you see me here before you, and now why in thunder are you letting that blamed old cat scratch that cover off the lounge?" M. QUAD.

Mr. Francis E. Leupp for years Washington correspondent for the New York Evening Post, has been appointed by the president to visit Indian Territory to examine what promises to be an extensive scandal concerning the bogus allotment of lands to Indians. Mr. Leupp signals his departure by contributing a letter to his paper showing why Mr. Payne should resign or be kicked out of the cabinet. It looks like Mr. Roosevelt's confidence in Mr. Leupp is confined to his fitness for examining Indian allotment in severity.

Pressure is being brought to bear on President Roosevelt and Postmaster General Payne to stop the postoffice investigation. This is being done by prominent Republicans who say that enough scandals have been made public to satisfy the public. Subordinates in the department have been directed to keep quiet and not let out any more charges against guilty officials. Are they getting ready for whitewash?

Postal officials who have been instrumental in unearthing the grand and petty larceny in that department are beginning to make public apologies for their part in the proceedings. They evidently have an idea, which is entirely justified, that the men who have stirred up the scandals need expect small consideration from those who have "the good of the party" at heart.

Clarence Darrow of Chicago who was attorney for the miners in the great strike, says that when he sees known allies of the great corporations, like Mark Hanna, professing love for the trade unions, he is apprehensive for the welfare of the unions. This is a common sense view. Hanna is not professing love for unionism merely for his health; he wants union votes.

Teddy has moved the national capital to his Long Island residence, known as Sagamore Hill. The old White House was good enough for our Presidents until imperialism and royal snobishness took the place of democratic simplicity, and now our imperialistic rulers must ape the aristocracy and "go away for the summer."

They know how to gerrymander over in Germany. The Socialist party casts as many votes as all the other parties combined, but it is hopelessly in the minority in the National Legislature. The voice of the people is not so deafening as to injure the Kaiser's earsight.

Boys Hanna has notified his followers in Cuyahoga county that a desperate effort must be made to carry that county this year. If the boys should lose the fourteen legislative votes from his own county he might not be re-elected Senator. Hence the urgency of the situation in Cuyahoga.

MORE SCANDALS

Coming to Light in Government Circles at Washington.

Senators and Congressmen Involved in War Department Contract Scandals--Evidence Adduced in Bankruptcy Case of a Contractor.

Washington, July 6.—There is a cloud of scandal overhanging the War department that may throw into the shade that of the postoffice. The administration seems to have fallen into the mire of corruption and it may not only defeat the renomination of Theodore Roosevelt, but may result in the election of a Democratic President in 1904.

The Littauer glove scandal has only started the ball rolling. There may be a bucket of whitewash ready in the department, but that will not end it.

No departmental investigation can clear up this scandal. War Department officials may be cleared of complicity—and probably will be by a department board of inquiry—but it probably will require a Congressional investigation to unearth the ramifications of the various army contracts entered into during the Spanish war.

If the department makes an investigation of the contracts that have been entered into for the purpose of ascertaining if any member of Congress was interested, it will come up against some hard propositions.

Senator Towner of Vermont is said to be virtually the owner of the Vermont marble and granite quarries and for a number of years this concern has had the War department contracts for furnishing headstones for the graves of all soldiers buried in the national cemeteries.

This company has received several hundred thousands of dollars and the contract is still in force.

How many more members of Congress may be interested in army contracts, either as holders of stock in incorporated companies, as members of firms, or as attorneys, no one can tell.

Lucius N. Littauer, member of Congress for the Twenty-second New York

District, "political mentor" for President Roosevelt, boon companion of Governor Odell, is accused of violating his oath of office and rendering himself amenable to punishment under Section 3739 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, in that he was interested in Government contracts worth a half million dollars, and from which his glove firm realized profits aggregating $90,000, while he was a member of the House of Representatives.

Documentary evidence of that has been produced at hearings in bankruptcy before United States Referee Stanley W. Dexter, in which Edmund R. Lyon sought to be absolved from a debt of $30,000 due to Littauer Brothers, Revillon Freres and other firms.

Littauer disclaims having employed his official position to make money. He says that in the contract to furnish the United States army during the Spanish war thousands of pairs of gloves made by Littauer Brothers, it was his brother, William, and not he who was interested.

Letters written by Congressman Littauer on official note paper of the House Committee on Manufactures have been produced to prove that he personally was interested financially in the contract.

Mr. Lyon, in his testimony before Referee Dexter, said:

"Littauer Brothers were in with me on government contracts for muskrat gauntlets and muskrat caps. They also furnished buckskin gauntlets. The contract or contracts ran the whole time of the Spanish-American war. In some cases I divided the profits with Littauer Brothers. In others that firm got a specified price per pair for their gloves. The contracts were made with the Assistant Quartermaster's Department of the United States army and the United States marine corps."

AROUND THE WORLD

Cablegram Was Sent in Twelve Minutes--Messages of President to Taft and Mackay Sent Just Before Fourth Was Ended.

"Girding the Earth" in 12 minutes.

Puck's promise 40 minutes.

Senator Depew's message 50 minutes.

President's message 12 minutes.

Total distance 25,835 miles.

Extreme points in the course of message—Oyster Bay, N. Y., and Canso, Nova Scotia.

Large bodies of water through which message passed—Pacific Ocean, China Sea, Indian Ocean Arabian Sea, Atlantic Ocean.

Countries through which message passed—United States of America and India.

Route of Message through United States—Oyster Bay to New York, New York to Chicago, Chicago to San Francisco.

Owing to a storm at Honolulu it was impossible to pick up the cable buoyed 17 miles from shore in time to send the around-the-world message at 9 a. m., on July 4, but the cable was completed and the first message to girdle the earth by means of the new Pacific cable was sent before the Glorious Fourth became the prosaic fifth.

One message completed the circuit of the world in 12 minutes.

The message left Oyster Bay, L. I. at 11:23 p. m., and was received back again at 11:35.

At 11:02 this message was sent to Governor Taft at Manila:

"I open the American Pacific cable with greetings to you and the people of the Philippines. Theodore Roosevelt."

It was soon followed by this one to Clarence H. Mackay, pre-ident of the Pacific Commercial Cable company:

"Congratulations and success to the Pacific cable, which the genius of your lamented father and your own enterprise made possible. Theodore Roosevelt."

was received from Governor Taft at Manila, addressed to President Roosevelt:

"The Filipino people and the Americans resident in these islands are glad to present their respectful greetings and congratulations to the President of the United States conveyed over the cable with which American enterprise has girdled the Pacific, thereby rendering greatly easier and more frequent communication between the two countries, it will certainly lead to a closer union and better mutual understanding of each other's aims and sympathies and of their common interest in the prosperity of the Philippines and the education and development of the Philippines."

"It is not inappropriate to incorporate in this the first message across the Pacific from the Philippines to America, an earnest plea for the reduction of the tariff on Filipino products in accordance with the broad and liberal spirit which the American people desire to manifest toward the Filipinos, and of which you have been an earnest exponent. Taft."

President Mackay's reply to the President came along next in the following words:

"I thank you deeply for your message, and I earnestly hope that the Pacific cable by opening the wide horizon of the great East, may prove a useful factor to the commerce of the United States. Clarence Mackay."

Governor Nash sent the following: W. H. Taft, Manila: I congratulate you that your official home is now connected with your native home by cable. For the people of Ohio I wish you the utmost success in your great work. Geo. K. Nash.

Peculiarly enough, owing to its westward course, the message did some of its traveling on the third as well as on the fourth. Its speed caused it to go back into the day previous to that on which it was sent. Thus if a message were sent around the world today, starting at 5 o'clock this morning it would arrive at Honolulu at 11 o'clock yesterday evening. It would get to Midway at 10 o'clock last night. When it reached India it would be 3 o'clock this afternoon, but it would arrive at New York before 6 o'clock this morning.

Thus it would have made an excursion from today into yesterday and arrived back at New York within an hour of the time it started.

PEOPLE WHO CAN'T SLEEP.

Many people go to bed—not to sleep, but to think—to tumble and toss—to get up, walk about, until tired Nature gives way and a few fitful hours of sleep are obtained just before dawn—a sleep that does not rest—a sleep from which one wakes weary and tired, wholly unfitted to take up the daily routine of household, shop or office duties. That condition goes on uncorrected for is almost criminal, when the well known, time-tried and tested powers of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills to give restful, natural sleep have been so fully proven in such cases.

Mrs. W. Bates of 1434 South Sixth street, Newark, Ohio, says:—"Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills I know are excellent because they made my nerves steady—gave me strength and good restful sleep, three things I needed badly. Their action was rapid and more than satisfactory, and I am right glad in the face of the fine result I obtained that C. T. Bricker, druggist, called my attention to the medicine." An Interrupted Story. Captain Williams, a jovial Irishman, known everywhere as "Bob," used to be a favorite in Dublin society many years ago. His stories were famous. Give him an incident, and he would set it out to the general admiration.

One evening he went into the club and there began telling the true tale of rescuing a lady and her daughters from a dangerous situation into which their spirited horses had brought them.

"I quieted the ladies," said he, "and I quieted the horses. And the gratitude of the ladies! Me boys, I shouldn't be surprised if her ladyship left me!"

At that moment a little Irish page in livery appeared.

"Sir," said he, "Lady Arnold says she lost her purse when you helped her out of the carriage, and please, she says, do you know anything about it?"

The captain's story was never finished.

Minnie Hauck as a Drummer. Minnie Hauck was once singing at the Berlin court opera in Donizetti's "Daughter of the Regiment."

Emperor William I., after the opera, called her into his presence and told her she had sung very nicely, but that her drumming—as the Daughter of the Regiment she had to play the drum—was very bad. Next morning a drum major of the First Grenadier regiment called at her hotel and said he had come to give her a drum lesson. The diva was bound to accept the instruction and learned the whole art of drumming in a couple of dozen lessons. Then the kaiser sent to ask how she was getting on, and hearing that she had made excellent progress, he commanded a performance of "A Daughter of the Regiment." Minnie Hauck acquitted herself excellently in the drumming scene, and the kaiser complimented her warmly, sending her next day a real official military drum with a silver plate and inscription.

For forty years Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been curing summer complaint, dysentery, diarrhoea, bloody flux, pain in the stomach, and it has never yet failed to do everything claimed for it.

The following description of Ruskin at home is from the life of the great apostle of beauty by Frederic Harrison in the English Men of Letters Series:

Not only was he in social intercourse one of the most courteous and sweetest of friends, but he was in manner one of the most fascinating and impressive beings whom I ever met. I have talked with Carlyle and Tennyson, with Victor Hugo and Mazzini, with Garibaldi and Gambetta, with John Bright and Robert Browning, but no one of these ever impressed me more vividly with a sense of intense personality, with the inexplicable light of genius that seemed to well up spontaneously from heart and brain. It remains a psychological puzzle how one who could write with passion and scorn such as Carlyle and Byron never reached, who in print was so often Athenianus contra mundum, who opened every written assertion with "I know," was in private life one of the gentlest, gayest, humblest of men.

How a Rat Stole Bulbs.

M. de l'Arville, a well known French naturalist, told a remarkable story about a rat in the Journal des Debats. A gardener planted one afternoon 250 tulip bulbs on a terrace, and next morning he noticed that the ground had been disturbed and that they had all been taken away. He was confident that rats had done the work, and, taking a spade, he began to dig in the hope of discovering their nest. Soon he unearthed a large female rat, which he killed, and after digging a few more minutes he discovered an underground chamber lined with hay and leaves and connected by a corridor with two holes, which were evidently used as storehouses, for in them he found the 250 tulip bulbs. This was remarkable, but more remarkable was the fact that they were neatly arranged in two rows and that not one of them had been gnawed or otherwise injured.

He Looked It.

A ridiculous but amusing story used to be told of Charles Reade's dramatization of Tennyson's poem, "Dora." We do not, however, vouch for the truth of the anecdote. "Dora" was being performed one night years ago, and when Mary Morrison made her exit to bring on her little Willie, aged about four, she was shocked to find a lubberly boy of at least fourteen, and, as he was the only Willie at hand, on he had to go, though he was well nigh as big as his mother. The former Allen of the play, being equal to the emergency, instead of inquiring, "How old are you, my little man?" endeavored to remedy the matter by saying, "How old are you, my strapping boy?" But it was a failure, for the boy, who was instructed to say from "four to five," said in such a hoarse, sepulchral tone as to drive the good natured grandfather to exclaim, "Forty-five! You look it, my boy; you look it!"—Golden Penny.

Cheerfulness.

Cheerfulness is a duty one owes to oneself as well as to one's neighbors, for nothing so unites one for the ordinary duties of life or so quickly brings on premature old age as a morose temper, says the Brooklyn Eagle. There are plenty of artificial aids to cheerfulness within the reach of every one who has real or imaginary cause for ill humor or a congenital tendency to silliness. When things don't go right or your liver is guilty of neglect of duty strive systematically to achieve good humor by repeating over and over the best funny stories or bits of humorous poetry you know. If conscientiously administered this prescription is an infallible remedy for the most acute fit of blue devils. If you doubt it just try the experiment.

Survival of a Custom.

On gateposts you will frequently find a stone ball. Who would ever suppose that the balls on the gateposts were the heads of family enemies? It was once the custom to stick your enemy's gory head as a trophy on the gatepost. On the gates of towns were stuck the heads of traitorous persons. In old London, for instance, the bridge gate and Temple Bar were always decorated with ghastly relics of the kind, and the memory of the custom survives on the gateposts of modern suburban villas.

The Cost of Neglect.

"I need a vacation badly, but I can't take it now," said Dr. Price-Price. "Many of my patients are in such condition that I can't afford to leave them. They need constant nursing." "Ah, yes," replied the man who knew. "I guess there are certain patients who, if you quit them, get well the first thing you know."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Inconsistent.

"We look for our feller men to be consistent, an' dat's where we am inconsistent ourselves. De best speech I ever deliberated was on de subject of honesty, an' yet I had to go out dat werry evenin' an' steal wood 'nuff to run me ober Sunday."—Detroit Free Press.

The Expected.

Ernie—So Mabel and Jack eloped? Helen—Yes, and they did just what I thought they would do.

Quickly Subdued.

Von Blumer (roaring with rage)—Who told you to put paper on the wall? Decorator—Your wife, sir. Von Blumer—Pretty, isn't it?

Many people buy everything on credit and never ask the price until they go to pay. Then there is a kick.—Atchison Globe.

FRUIT AT THE BREAKFAST TABLE

Nature Provides its own remedies which, if used judiciously, insure perfect health at all times

Aside from the pleasure of eating seasonal fruits before beginning the first meal of the day, this custom has undoubtedly arisen from the well known fact that nearly all fruit and more particularly plums and PRUNES contain natural laxative principles which act directly on the stomach and bowels.

Constipation, that dread and troublesome complaint which is undoubtedly the basic cause of nine-tenths of the dyspepsia, indigestion, biliousness, etc., so prevalent among our people to-day, and, which if neglected, surely leads to more complicated and serious organic diseases, can surely be prevented, and when not too far advanced, can be absolutely cured by the judicious use of the modern laxative and cathartic California Prune Wafers.

They are not a patent medicine in the ordinary sense of the word, being compounded from fresh California Prunes, which every intelligent person knows is truly nature's laxative.

A dainty little wafer, always the same.

compounded in a highly concentrated form from fresh California Prunes, they are a natural dissolvent, acting on the contents of the stomach and bowels and not on the organs themselves.

They regulate the Liver and Stomach, Cleanse the System and Purify the Blood, Cure all Bowel Troubles, Biliousness, Bad Breath, Bad Blood, Wind on the Stomach, Bloating, Biceps, Foul Mouth, Headache, Indigestion, Pimples and Dizziness.

Every household should have its family package of CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFERS, and at the first signs of approaching illness, or when under the weather, take a couple of wafers, and the doctor's bills will soon be much smaller than they are now.

You can eat what you please if you follow each meal with a CALIFORNIA PRUNE WAFER, which quickly dissolves the most indigestible food, and helps to carry it through and out of the system in a gentle and healthful manner, without the slightest pain, griping or nausea. 100 Wafers for 25c.

They are vitiated or morbid fluids coursing the veins and affecting the tissues. They are commonly due to defective digestion but are sometimes inherited.

Care Counts

The issues of life and death depend on the potency of a drug sometimes—often than we are apt to think. When your physician prescribes a remedy he expects certain results; if the remedy supplied by lacking in purity or strength, it may fail in its purpose.

We think of these things. We take care to see that every drug we use in prescriptions is absolutely pure and of standard potency. We have had 21-years' experience, and can assure you that if you permit us to compound your prescriptions you can feel secure about them.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS.

FREIGHT SHEDS

AND FORTY-FIVE LOADED CARS DESTROYED.

Scant Supply of Water at Chicago Junction Made It Difficult to Fight Flames.

Chicago Junction, O., July 6.—The B. & O. freight sheds at Chicago Junction, containing about 45 loaded freight cars, burned to the ground Sunday afternoon. Charles Bradner, assistant yard master, was slightly injured.

A freight car containing supplies of torpedoes, fuses and powder used in railroad construction, exploded in the yards and broke every window in the round house and repair shops, nearby.

The fire is supposed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion among explosives in the sheds.

The loss which is very great, has been estimated at $200,000. Scant supply of water rendered the fire department unable to cope with the flames.

Wabash Deal.

Indianapolis, Ind., July 6.—It is announced here that a deal has been closed that may give the Wabash its long-desired Indianapolis terminal.

Eight years ago the Indianapolis and Logansport railway company incorporated to build from here to Logansport by way of Sheridan, Russellville, Kempton and Young America, but all efforts to finance the project failed.

All the original incorporators except Judge Quincy Myers, of Logansport, have dropped out and Eastern capitalists whose names are being withheld have agreed to furnish the money. I. N. Ritchie, a prominent real estate man, has secured options for right of way to the heart of the city, where the company proposes to erect a passenger station. Right of way has also been secured almost to Logansport. Judge Myers and associates will ask for a franchise here next week. Railroad men believe the Wabash is behind the deal.

Disabled Engine.

Engineer "Jack" Ayers, before getting on engine 836 to go north on B. & O. No. 7, Monday morning discovered several bolts loose about the mechanism and reported the engine unfit to go through. No. 7 had pulled in and the 836 was ready to couple on the train when the discovery was made. A delay of several minutes was occasioned while the condition of affairs was telephoned to the round house and engine 726 was sent out on the express, with the same crew that was to have gone on the disabled engine.

The B. & O.'s Exhibit.

The B. & O. will have 60,000 square feet in the Transportation building at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition for the company exhibit. The exhibit will be in charge of Major J. G. Pangborn. The exhibit will be designed to show the development of the great railroads of the world. Major Pangborn had charge of the B. & O.'s exhibit at the Chicago World's Fair, the greater part of which was transferred after the fair closed to the Field Columbian Museum. It has been arranged to have it taken from the museum to St. Louis.

Parties desiring berths on the Pan Handle Pullman cars must secure them a few days in advance as traffic is heavy just now.

CANCEROUS ULCERS

ROOTED IN THE BLOOD.

After the age of 45 or 50, when the vital powers are naturally weaker, it is noticed that a hurt of any kind heals slowly and often a very insignificant scratch or bruise becomes a bad ulcer or a cancer. At this time of life, warty growths, moles and pimples that have been on the body almost from birth begin to inflame and fester, and before very long still no signs of the cancer, and my general health continues good. Mrs. B. SHIRER, Wyandotte, Mo.

Whenever a sore or ulcer is slow in healing then you may be sure something is radically wrong with your blood. Some old taint or poison that has been slumbering there for years, is beginning to assert itself, and breaks out and becomes a bad ulcer and perhaps the beginning of Cancer. These old sores are rooted in the blood, and while washes, soaps, salves, etc., keep the surface clean, they are not healing. A blood medicine to purify and strengthen the polluted blood and a tonic to build up the general system is what is needed, and S. S. S. is just such a remedy. No poison is so powerful and no germ so deadly that this great vegetable blood remedy cannot reach it, and ulcers of every kind quickly yield to its wonderful curative properties. If you have an old sore or ulcer, write us all about it, and medical advice or any information you may desire will be given by our physicians without charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Too Many Doctors.

In his opening address at the recent convention in New Orleans of the American Medical Association Dr. Billings of Chicago, its president, advocated restriction in the output of physicians. There are too many doctors, he thought, and ascribed the oversupply to the excess of medical colleges. About 2,500 medical graduates a year are enough, he considered, to supply the country, but we are getting 10,000 or 12,000. He would have the medical schools reduced to twenty-five or thirty. Possibly that would be expedient if it were practicable, for anything less than a first rate medical school must have abundant resources and certain advantages of situation which can never be common. But that the supply of new doctors should be so much restricted is at least debatable. — Harper's Weekly.

The Banks of Newfoundland.

The finest codfish in the world are caught on the banks of Newfoundland. These banks have no connection with the shores of the islands, from which indeed the nearest is almost 100 miles distant. They are really great rocky heights rising from the bottom of the sea. The great bank measures 540 miles from north to south, and from east to west it measures in places 300 miles. On this bank the depth of water varies from 50 to 350 feet, but the depth around it is from 10,000 to 150,000 feet.

The fishing grounds—or "cod meadows," as they are called—do not cover the whole bank, but are about 200 miles long by 67 broad. Though these have been fished for 400 years the cod are as plentiful as ever. To the east of the great bank lies the outer or false bank, where the sea is from 300 to 600 feet deep. The cod caught on the banks are finer and larger than the fish taken off the Labrador coast. This is supposed to be due to the fact that they have reached the age of four years and upward, at which age their habits lead them to feed on the banks in preference to the shore, where the younger fish remain all the year.

Curry.

Curry is native to India. It is a con-course of atoms, not fortuitous, but as a marvelous result of the Hindoo subtlety, judgment and taste, as Nirvana and the transmigration of souls are of the subtlety, philosophy and attractiveness of the Buddhistic belief. Curry is a vegetable; rather curry is vegetables. It is anise, coriander, cumin, mustard, poppy seeds, allspice, almonds, asafoetida, ghee, cardamom seeds, chili berries, cinnamon, cloves, coconut, coconut milk, oil, curds, fenugreek seeds, an Indian nut I can't spell, garlic, onion, ginger, lime juice, vinegar, mace, mangoes, nutmeg, pepper, saffron, salt, tamarind and turmeric.

These are all pounded together, dried in an oven or in the sun. When bottled, it is the powder which comes to us as Indian curry. Now, is it not worth admiring the wit and skill that have brought together such a number of ingredients and out of them have evolved an article so entirely different from each and in which there is not one elementary trace?—Harper's.

Uninsured Tenements.

It is startling to think that while almost any tradesman's shop that might be burned down is covered by insurance the British museum, if it were burned down tomorrow, would not cost the insurance companies one halfpenny. Neither would the houses of parliament. They stand for £3,000,000, but not one single sovereign of this vast sum is covered by insurance. Three thousand pounds a year is spent on a force of police and firemen to protect the houses of parliament by day and night, and the British museum pays the rent of a fireman's house in Cornam street, but that is the full cost of the precautions against fire in these places. The British museum, believing that prevention is better than cure, has no artificial light on its innermost recesses.—St. James Gazette.

Chemistry of a Tear.

A tear from the eye of a representative of the Caucasian races is found to be composed of water, salt, soda, phosphate of lime, phosphate of soda and mucus. From the eye of an African the elements composing the tear are found to be the same as the above, with the single exception of the phosphate of soda and with the addition of a slight trace of ammonia. The Eskimos and the fishing Finns seldom shed tears, but when they do chemists say they are exceedingly salty.

The chemical elements in the Caucasian tear arrange themselves into particles that look like fish bones, those from a negro's tear form a rude cross, while the same process of evaporation leaves the chemicals in an Eskimo's tear in the shape of a bow.

The Time to Do the Counting.

In the old days of impetuous warfare caution was not regarded as so much a virtue on the part of a military commander as at present. In a battle between French and Austrians, in which Marshal Bugeaud commanded the French forces, an officer of the staff said to the marshal: "The enemy are advancing. Shall I send a party to reconnoiter and see how numerous they are?" "No," said Bugeaud; "we'll count 'em after we've beaten 'em."

Johnny—a clergyman, sir.
Clergyman—Now tell me why you would like to be a clergyman, my boy.

His Strong Point.

"Some people say, you know," remarked the spaniel, "that when human beings die they take the form of animals."
"Well, if I was ever a human being," replied the cat, "I must have been a bird fancier."—Philadelphia Press.

Enjoying Venice.

"I just asked Mrs. Nouveau-Riche if she enjoyed Venice, and what do you think she said?"
"Give it up."
"That they only stayed one night, as the streets were flooded and people had to go about in boats."

Walther's Peptonized Port is a great auxiliary to any system of physical culture. The man who does not take physical culture or systematic exercise needs it even more, because Walther's Peptonized Port largely takes the place of exercise in inducing a healthy, vigorous condition of the system, keeping the digestion in good working order and regulating the stomach and bowels. It assists the digestive organs, thereby enabling the user to get the greatest amount of strength from his food. It makes new, red blood, and invigorates the entire system.

Babylonian Creation Legends.

The story of the creation, as told on the clay tablets of ancient Babylon, is interesting. Several deities appear to have been regarded as in existence at the beginning of things. At least two, Apsu and Tiamat, represented chaos, and the former rebelled against the gods in consequence. The chief struggle was between him and Ea, whose son, Bel, created the world. Man was made by Marmuk, who in spite of the difference in name may have been identical with Bel. The creation of man was the culminating event of the history. Marmuk told Ea that he intended to perform his task and asked his father to behold him. Man was to be made out of Marmuk's blood and bone. Marmuk appears to have survived deification, as he subsequently took part in the councils of the gods.

Many parallels between these legends and the Hebrew story of the creation can be detected by scholars. The idea that seven days were devoted to the work may have long antedated Abraham's time. The oldest tablets yet discovered are not originals, but copies. These date back only 668-626 B. C.

Beaton and His Wife.

Senator Benton of Missouri was a model of tenderness and devotion to his invalid wife. It seems that during her later years her mind became impaired by a paralytic stroke, but she never failed to recognize her husband and was fond of being near him. Once when her distinguished husband was entertaining a foreign prince in the drawing room Mrs. Benton came to the door in a state of undress and stood gazing at her husband. The attention of the company being attracted in her direction, Benton turned to see what the attraction was. On perceiving his poor wife he immediately rose, went to her, took her tenderly by the hand and, leading her into the room, said, "My dear, Prince So-and-so; prince, Mrs. Benton, sir." Then affectionately placing a hosiery for her by the side of his chair he resumed his seat, and, leaving one of his hands in hers for her to toy with, he went on with the conversation. The prince was quick to take in the situation and adapted himself to the occasion with consummate tact, while all the Missourians were deeply affected.

The Silk Hats Worn in London.

There are always two kinds of silk hats, each of the best quality, on sale in London. One is the strictly fashionable model, "the latest," or whatever one may choose to call it, which is retailed in the west end at from a guinea to 25 shillings. The other is the style which immediately preceded it and has "gone out," although the quality is unchanged. This is usually called the "city" hat and costs 16 shillings. The distinction is a very peculiar one. Employees of large London commercial houses are not expected to be up to the hilt in fashion, and if they are it is sure to be resented by their employers. A London city magnate would not be seen wearing the same shape hat as one of his bookkeepers, and so the great army of salary drawers keep just a shape behind the bondholding community.

A Pen Picture of Queen Anne.

Those outside of a palace may feel Shakespeare's sentiment, "There's such divinity doth hedge a king," but it is hardly possible to those inside. One of the Scotch commissioners to negotiate a union between Scotland and England, Sir John Clerk, could not have felt it during an official interview with Queen Anne, of whom he gives this realistic picture:

"Her majesty was laboring under a fit of the gout and in extreme pain and agony, and on this occasion everything about her was much in the same disorder as about the meanest of her subjects. Her face, which was red and spotted, was rendered something frightful by her negligent dress, and the foot affected was tied up with a pulvis and some nasty bandages. "I was much affected at this sight, and the more when she had occasion to mention her people of Scotland," which she did frequently to the duke. "What are you, poor, meeklike mortal, thought I, who talks in the style of a Sovereign?"

"Nature seems to be inverted when a poor, infirm woman becomes one of the Rulers of the world, but as Tacitus observes it is not the first time that Women have governed in Britain, and indeed they have sometimes done this to better purpose than the Men."

The hair of the head grows faster in summer than in winter.

THE FOURTH

WAS A REMARKABLE DAY IN NEWARK.

Not a Single Serious Accident, No Arrest, Not One Fire—Big Crowd at Idlewild Park.

The Fourth of July in Newark was the noisiest in the city's history, and yet the day was remarkable in many respects.

There was not a serious or fatal accident, and only one that will temporarily disable the victim, so far as can be learned from physicians.

Not an arrest was made during the day for disorderly conduct or drunkenness, the police confiscating a number of revolvers and letting the owners go.

There was not a single fire alarm. George Mitchell of Mt Vernon, while working with a toy pistol at the City Drug store, was shot in the palm of the left hand and will lose the use of the member for some little time. He is employed by George T. Stream, the bicycle dealer, at his store, corner of Main and Fifth streets.

Idlewild Park seemed to be the center of attraction for those seeking pleasure, recreation or rest, and all attendance records were broken, over 9,000 people paying to get into the grounds. They spent the day in various ways, but all had a good time.

In the evening the most elaborate display of fireworks ever seen in Newark was given on the lake at the Park. The feature was a piece which represented one of the new parlor cars on the C. B. L. & N. road, in which could be seen the fiery likeness of General Manager J. R. Harrigan which was greeted with hearty cheers by the crowds.

Transport Beached.

Manila, July 6—United States transport Summer, having on board the Fourth Infantry, struck an uninhabited reef and her forward hold filled rapidly necessitating the vessel being beached. No drownings have yet been reported.

A New Bed.

There is a new bed on the market which appears to be excellent for a small house or for a flat, says the New York Times. When down it is apparently like an ordinary metal bedstead except that at the head and foot are crosspieces instead of perpendicular rods, as in an ordinary bed. It is also to be seen that at one side of the bed there are two feet on either end. All of this is explained when the bed is closed. The head and foot pieces collapse, the crosspieces folding up, and the front posts roll on casters up to those in the back. The bed is turned up, ready made, and stands against the wall, out of the way. Across the underside of the bed is a piece of cloth which matches the valance at the foot. This last falls down over the other, covering the front bar of the bedstead when it is raised, and the whole thing is presentable.

The Old Kentucky Home.

The sun shines bright on the bayonets and guns. On the cannon in the common and the square. There is music in the bugle and the roll of the drums. And there's music of the rifles in the air. The militiamen are mounting guard before the old jail door. The mountaineers are massing for the fray. And it's getting mighty lively in a dozen ways or more. In the old Kentucky home so far away. The orchards are in blossom and the perfume is sweet. Oh, the face of nature never was more fair! But the colonels are a-shooting at each other on the street. And the mountaineers are out upon a tear. For it's summer in Kentucky, and without a chance to stab and shoot and slay. Life would not be worth the living where the meadow grass is blue. In the old Kentucky home so far away. —Rochester Post-Express.

MARVELOUS DISCOVERY

New Element In Nature of Vast Possibilities as Viewed By a Pittsburger—New Fields for Radium.

Pittsburg, July 6—Marvelous applications of radium, just discovered by M. Pierre Curie and isolated to a scientific circle of London, were communicated to an American physician, Dr. Albert R. Matheny, who returned to his home at 7022 Hamilton avenue, East End, recently, from London. The marvel of science may give heat forever and not lose its power, it does the work of the X-ray, it has the power of the wonderful Flinsen light to cure lupus it can kill all tuberculosis in the skin, and most marvelous of all its effect upon life.

"For instance," said Dr. Matheny, "they had the larvae of moths there exposed to tubes of radium. The worms never grew to butterflies, but remained in the same state of life, while their brothers from the same nest which were not exposed to the radium went through four generations. It is the most wonderful thing God ever made. Radium will do the work of the life theory advanced by Dr. Loeb, of Chicago, concerning a new source of life. It has made X-ray photographs. A hundredth part of a gram in a grate would heat a large room forever. It never loses its power. It may be the source of all energy in the world. The radium is a three-inch tube, the diameter of a needle, and consists of powdered grains black as coal, but glowing in the darkness the realization of Bellamy's idea of a substance distributed along the walls to light a room. "A tube held in the hand is apparently perfectly harmless, but three weeks afterward its form is seared in the hand where it lay. The discoverer of this element learned of its peculiar burning power by accident. He carried a tube of radium in his vest pocket when he went before a scientific gathering to explain his discovery. Subsequently his body was burned where it had come into contact with the tube."

The discovery was the result of the combined work of M. Curie and Mme. Curie. Others have discovered new elements in nature. Lord Raleigh argon, Sir W. Ramsay helium, and so on, but these were inert. M. and Mme. Curie have discovered the elements that seem to give out exhaustless energies, which it is believed will lead natural philosophers to revise their doctrines and advance thinkers to base thereon new theories of the construction of the universe.

The emanations of radium at once discharge electrified bodies. A powerful current was passing through an induction coil and giving off a succession of sparks. Radium was brought near to either pole, and the current and sparks ceased. The corpuscles thrown off are carriers of electricity, and they render bodies conductors that are otherwise non-conductors.

It was shown that under the influence of radium the air all around, instead of barring the passage of electricity, facilitates it. These electrical effects are regarded as likely to be of the highest importance.

Radium is found in pitchblende which is found in certain rare minerals. The quantity of radium in pitchblende is less than one ten-millionth per cent. A single gram of radium is worth $10,000. In spite of its amazing rarity M. and Mme. Curie by tireless research secured it for science. Aluminum was once as rare. It is believed that radium may be found in mineral waters. There are only 15 grains of radium known in the world. An experiment showed it to be effective as a gun sight for day and night shooting.

POPE DYING

Rome, July 6—3 a. m.—"God's will be done. Who would have believed it when only ten days ago I was presiding over a public consistory?" feebly murmured Pope Leo as he felt himself late last night sinking into a sleep which lasted about three hours, until excruciating pain brought the dying Pontiff back to consciousness. He groaned and complained of pains on both sides of the thorax. Tenderly Dr. Lapponi, assisted by Pope Leo's valet, Plocentra and the physician's second assistant, Decastro, lifted the frail form, and, changing the position, succeeded in giving the patient some relief.

Though hovering on the brink of death the life of the Pontiff is still prolonged by means of strong stimulants and concentrated nourishment, and, while he is still barely alive his wonderful vitality may again resist and conquer the attack of this illness.

Late last evening after the excitement of the ceremony of the last sacrament was over, the Pope seemed less restless, partly soothed by the religious service and partly by a dose of chloral which was given to him in considerable quantity.

The Pontiff is lying on a small bed drawn up to a window overlooking the piazza of St. Peter's. The only picture in the room is an antique Madonna, and the sole ornament a great ivory crucifix.

KAISER PRAYS FOR POPE.

Berlin, July 6—Kaiser Wilhelm conducted divine services on board his yacht Hohenzollern yesterday while anchored in the Trave Munda.

At the close of the services he said that despatches from Rome contained bad news.

"The Pope whom I know and respect, is very ill and his life is in danger. Let us pray for him."

The Kaiser then offered up a prayer for the Pope's life and concluded his supplication with these words:

"The world needs great and good men and may God Almighty spare him for many years."

SPECULATION

As to the Probable Successor to the Throne of St. Peter—Opinions are Divided.

Rome, July 6—All kinds of speculation are already in circulation as to the probable successor to the throne of St. Peter. Opinions are much divided, owing to the many interests which will be affected according to the choice made by the Sacred College. The first question the Cardinals will have to solve will be whether the conclave shall be held in Rome or outside of Italy. It is believed that the supporters of the idea of abandoning Rome will be even fewer than in the conclave held after the death of Pius IX., when 22 out of 37 Cardinals voted in favor of Rome.

The second question will be whether the next Pope must be an Italian or a foreigner. It is generally believed that he will be an Italian, because, in view of the struggle between the church and the state since the fall of the temporal power and the constitution of United Italy, all the clergy, as well as the clerical party, and even foreigners, think an Italian Pope can protect better than a stranger the advance of the religious and political interests of the church.

The candidates chiefly spoken of are Cardinal Rampolla and Cardinal Serafino Vannutelli. They are both representatives of the conservative policy, but are bitter antagonists of each other. Cardinal Rampolla is a very warm Francophile, while Cardinal Vannutelli is averse to the policy inaugurated by the present Pontifical secretary of state of assuming the power to which he has adhered for 15 years. The most probable liberal candidates are Cardinal Bishop Agardi and Cardinal Priest Satolli, whose breadth of views and love of modern ideas have been strengthened during his stay in America. The most probable religious candidates are Cardinal Priest Gotti who would carefully avoid mixing up in politics, and Cardinal Priest Angelo di Pietro, who also has the desirable prerequisite of old age, being 75 years old. All these candidates live in Rome.
